

ILCWR will make a difference in the following ways:

- Facilitate individual growth towards greater independence
 - consumers are more confident participating in activities
 - consumers get out more often
 - consumers develop new skills/tools
 - consumers are satisfied with the way their physical and other needs are met
 - consumers' needs are met in a way that maximizes their own participation
 - consumers participate in the development of their service plan
 - consumers participate in the execution of the service plan in a way laid out in the plan
 - consumers have needs met such that they are able to remain living in their own home

- Create opportunities to make informed choices
 - consumers are more informed about their options and rights regarding living their lives as they see fit
 - consumers report they are making more informed choices
 - consumers have increased access to information

- Assist in the removal of barriers to full participation in the community
 - consumers believe that barriers are being removed that will allow them to participate fully
 - ILC identifies and responds to barriers and service gaps in the community

- Improve the capacity of caregivers to assist and support persons with disabilities
 - caregivers have reduced levels of stress
 - caregivers feel that they have support and adequate respite

- Increase the community's acceptance and integration of persons with disabilities
 - there is increased sensitivity towards people with disabilities and disability issues
 - systems/institutions are more informed
 - systems consult ILC about disability issues